St. Louis Samoyed Rescue reserves the right to refuse any applicant.

Should you have a rescued Samoyed in your home as a foster, and find that you can not continue to foster it, St. Louis Samoyed Rescue must be given a reasonable length of time to make other arrangements for the dog. It could take 24 to 48 hours to find other accommodations for the dog.

The dog remains the property of St. Louis Samoyed Rescue and may not be given away, sold or disposed of by a foster parent or any member of the family.

There are members of Rescue available for advice and support while you have one of our rescues in your home.
